There's no doubt that Hatomugi's products are one of the must-buys when it comes to travelling in Japan, especially their skin lotion, one of the best sellers in drug stores in Japan.

The main ingredient used for the products in Reihaku Hatomugi is adlay, aka coix seed. Though coix seed is nicknamed Chinese pearl barley, it's not a type of barley. In Japan, it's called Hatomugi, whereas in Chinese it's known as 薏仁. It is said to be good for beauty because it contains a lot of vitamin B group components and amino acids such as vitamin B1 and vitamin B2, which are considered good for warts, like neck warts. Even though there's no whitening component in the ingredients, whitening effects can surely be expected as one's metabolism is sped up.

Other than their best seller, Reihaku Hatomugi Skin Lotion, there are also other products in the series which deserve a purchase, such as their milky cream, body oil, body milk, hand cream and so forth. Let's have a look at all those splendid products!
